

Just the Thing for Your Daughter!

You'll please her and satisfy yourself in the choice of one of these New Coats.

The styles are the prettiest we have ever shown you. Materials are all pure wool, warm and rich looking in thin, pretty patterns.

Particular pains have been taken with the tailoring, too—an interlined protecting yoke makes each garment proof against the coldest weather.

And remember each garment having the "Wooltex" is guaranteed to give at least two season's satisfactory wear.

And the cut is extra full so that the two season's wear is assured no matter how fast the girl may grow.

GILLETTE CASE IS UNDER WAY.

Defense Scores Against Prosecution Several Times on Opening Day.

New York, Oct. 23.—The trial of Dr. Walter R. Gillette, formerly a vice-president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, was begun yesterday in the criminal branch of the supreme court before Justice Dowling and a jury.

In this case, which arose indirectly out of the general insurance investigation, the accused, according to the indictment, committed perjury before the grand jury which had the insurance matters under consideration, on May 11 of last year. Half a dozen other indictments stand against the defendant, but for the present the district attorney is satisfied to proceed with the perjury charge.

The alleged perjury consisted in a declaration that a certain account in the Dobbs Ferry bank was the "personal account of him," whereas it really was, as it is alleged, an account for the Mutual Life Insurance company, which was deposited in the Dobbs Ferry bank of which Andy Fields was president—to be drawn upon by Fields at his discretion. Fields was the legislative agent of the company.

Gillette sat with his counsel, former Judge Hatch and Solomon Hanford at a table on the other side of which were the prosecuting counsel, William Rand, Jr., specially engaged, and Assistant District Attorney Kresel.

HOWARD CASE POSTPONED.

Another Continuance Because Attorney-General Cannot Leave.

Newport, Oct. 23.—The case of the state of Vermont against George T. Howard of Craftsbury, the former railroad commissioner, which was set for trial for today, has been postponed for the second time, and will not be taken up before Monday of next week. The case is postponed as Attorney-General Fitts is engaged in the trial of William Fairbanks at Brattleboro, charged with the murder of his niece, and State Attorney Cook will not take up the Howard case until Mr. Fitts is able to assist him.
